PROGRAM OVERVIEW

There is a demographic shift in the U.S. towards an older population. This “gray tsunami” will disproportionately affect ophthalmology as a specialty because our top disorders are diseases of the elderly (age-related macular degeneration (ARMD), glaucoma and cataracts). Geriatric ophthalmic patients are not simply “older adults”; they have unique responses to treatment and disease and may have co-morbidities that impact diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis. Moreover, elderly patients may require the expertise of several health professionals from diverse disciplines who have experience in dealing with specific geriatric syndromes. Increasing geriatric expertise among ophthalmologists and primary care specialists while promoting competent, compassionate care of elderly patients is imperative.

This activity seeks to address the needs of the geriatric patient population by arming providers with the necessary information on topics such as diabetic retinopathy, ARMD, cataracts, glaucoma, low vision, as well as related co-morbidities (e.g., depression, dementia, hearing loss, function loss, driving and elder abuse). There is an insufficient number of geriatricians to meet the demographic shift, and individual specialty providers, generalists and allied health personnel will be required to have expertise in geriatric domains within their areas of service to provide care that is optimal, cost effective and safe.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Ophthalmologists, optometrists, geriatricians, internists, family practitioners, residents, fellows, physician assistants, registered nurses, advanced practice nurse practitioners and healthcare professionals with an interest in geriatric ophthalmology.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, the participant should be able to:

- Describe ethical issues in the elderly for ophthalmology, including compliance issues with therapy specific to elderly, avoiding polypharmacy and enhancing short-term and long-term compliance.
- Discuss medical and ophthalmic surgical ethical issues in the elderly, including when and when not to operate, consent issues, and falls and fractures in the postoperative period.
- Describe ethical issues in retina (e.g., age-related macular degeneration management and new treatments, the role of vitamin therapy, and the need for low vision services) and neuro-ophthalmology including medicolegal issues in medical ethics.

NURSING OUTCOMES STATEMENT

Upon completion of this activity, the nurse will be able to describe visual and complicated issues of the elderly and how to enhance their short and long-term outcomes within medical-ethical parameters, as evidenced by as evidenced by self-reported intent to change practice on the evaluation.

EDUCATIONAL METHODS

Didactic Lectures, Case Presentations, Panel Discussions

ACCREDITATION AND CREDIT DESIGNATION STATEMENTS

DISCLAIMER AND DISCLOSURES

Houston Methodist makes every effort to develop continuing education activities that are scientifically based, accurate, current, and objectively presented. In accordance with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) Standards for Integrity and Independence in Accredited Continuing Education and American Nurse Credentialing Center (ANCC) and Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education (ACPE) guidelines, Houston Methodist has implemented a mechanism requiring everyone in a position to control content of an educational activity (e.g., directors, planning committee members, contributors, peer reviewers, etc.) to disclose all financial relationships with ineligible companies (companies whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients) and mitigate any relevant financial relationships prior to the activity. Individuals must disclose to participants the existence of financial relationships at the time of the activity and 24 months prior.

Houston Methodist does not view the existence of interests or relationships with ineligible companies as implying bias or decreasing the value of a presentation. It is up to the participants to determine whether the interests or relationships influence the presenter with regard to exposition or conclusions.

In addition, if contributors will be discussing products (drugs/devices) they have been instructed to use generic names and to include various products within and across classes. If at any time during this activity you feel that there has been commercial or promotional bias, please notify the CE coordinator for the activity and note your comments by using the commercial bias comments box in the evaluation form. Please answer the question about balance in the CE activity evaluation candidly.

Some drugs/devices identified during this activity may have United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) clearance for specific purposes only or for use in restricted research settings. The FDA has stated that it is the responsibility of the individual physician to determine the FDA status of each drug or device that he/she wishes to use in clinical practice and to use the products in compliance with applicable law.

Faculty members are also asked to disclose any unlabeled use or investigational use (not yet approved for any purpose) or pharmaceutical and medical device products and provide adequate scientific and clinical justification for such use. Physicians are urged to fully review all the available data on products or procedures before using them to treat patients.

All the relevant financial relationships listed for these individuals have been mitigated.
